

SMOKER'S DEN

Where can you even smoke anymore?

Smoking parlors were once cozy, ornamental rooms where people partook of the pipe, without fear of offending others with smells of smoke or fun.

What's left of these opulent salons?

Three goldfish bowls for the entire country. No comfort; just a cold plexiglass zoo exhibit where nonsmokers gawk like you're a reptile. (Don't tap on the glass; it annoys them.)

Smokers know they can't indulge indoors. But when outside's foul, it'd sure be nice to light up without getting weather-tossed like a greenhorn riding out their first storm above deck on a crab boat.

You and your old school crew need a new school smokey hideaway. A man cave. A she shed.

Well check'er out boys, 'cause here she be. Going outside for a smoke is now optional.

The 2016 Jayco Eagle has everything to satisfy cigar smokers, weed tokers, dart rippers, and hookah puffers.

This 40ft smoked-ham-on-wheels has been pre-cured, so she's reserved for smokers only. (You a non-smoker? Go somewhere else and do that.)

FOR THE CIGAR SMOKERS:

Introducing, The Humidor.

For those who prefer classy tobacky. Plenty of space for storing your leather-bound books, because you're very important, and your apartment smells of rich mahogany (thanks to the discreet air fresheners, but they don't need to know that.) Host fireside chats next to your very own fireplace. After letting the bottle circulate freely, regale your fellow gentlemen with a fiery jazz flute performance. Includes dual washer/dryer so you can return home with a linen-fresh smoking jacket.

FOR THE WEED TOKERS:

Introducing, Half Baked.

With a fridge designed to fit every type of munchie for post-sesh snacks, and a full kitchen to craft master edibles. Host movie nights with a flatscreen mount, foldout sofa, dual swivel chairs, and lots of space for lava lamps and pillows galore. With a king bed, this sleeps at least four, so no one has to go home high.

FOR THE DART RIPPERS:

Introducing, Smoke On The Water.

With a four-season winter package, you can roll this joint from the mountains to the sea.

She's ready to go out 'n' get'er, so all you gotta say is, "Smokes, let's go."

Or, park it out back. You and your buds can do poker night without having to "keep it down."

When it's nice out, chill under the 16ft awning and grill some smokehouse burgers right out front of your smokehouse. Remember to use fresh ground chuck and don't overwork your meat. (Ain't that right, Rick?)

FOR THE HOOKAH PUFFERS:

Introducing, The Holy Smoke.

Throw up the arabesque wallpaper and you have yourself a sublimely ambient shisha cafe.

Three slide outs (two opposing) let you host opulent retreats featuring your prized 8-hose octo-hookah, with floor space to spare. Float smoke rings all the way to the 7-foot ceiling, watch them diffuse among Moroccan lanterns and exotic textiles. Belly-dancers not included.

Dual AC units and outside skirting promote year-round peaceful temperatures.

The extra-large powder room includes a full shower and porcelain throne, where your guests can perform their ablutions without feeling cramped.

This party palace is your ultimate smokery. All she's missing is you, your crew and your Zippo. Come on down and light her up.

We're not blowin' smoke, but you could be.
